

NARRATIVE TEXT #1 - The Fancy Dress Party

It was Isabel's ninth birthday. She had invited all her friends over to a special fancy dress party. Chloe came as Cinderella, Grace came as Tinkerbell and Amelia came as Alice in Wonderland. Noah came as Captain Hook, George was Harry Potter and Finn was Aladdin. Isabel herself was Princess Jasmine.

Isabel's mother, Sarah, wanted to make sure the children all had a good time so she organised some fun games.

"Now kids, we're going to play Scarecrow first," she said.

"What's that?" asked Captain Hook.

"You run around and when the music stops, you stand like a scarecrow - completely still. Anyone who moves is out."

The next game was Pass the Parcel. Isabel's mum had wrapped up a giant parcel in brightly coloured birthday paper. The children sat in a circle and passed the parcel around. When the music stopped, whoever was holding it unwrapped it. Each time there was a little present.

"This is the best game ever!" said Harry Potter.

The final game was Charades. The children had to mime a song, movie or book while the others had to guess what it was.

After the games, they all went outside. There, Isabel's mother had prepared a feast. There were mini hot dogs, sausage rolls, party pies, cupcakes and a special treat...

"What's this?" said Tinkerbell.

"Fairy bread!" said Isabel. Everyone laughed.

"What a great party!" said all the children.
